ADVANTAGES

"But I prefer to have own security department," you may wonder. But have you considered the hassles? In times of union and management disputes and labour unrest, such personnel often add to the trouble. Whereas, an independent specialised security service calculated internal pressures ensures:

.....that the risk of security persons colluding with the workers is minimised.

.....that delinquent security personnel can be dealt with instantly.that economy is maintained while ensuring security. For example. an in-house guard or security department can cost 30% - 100% more when you consider the expenses of recruiting, training, supervising and in general running of the department.

The comprehensive range of services offered and superior expertise of independent security agencies such as Harsha Security can rarely be matched by the limited scope of a security department.

SPECIAL TRAINING CLASSES

Fire Fighting, First-Aid, Grooming Standards, Inventory, Communications and Better Customer Services. Self Motivation, Self Confidence.

OUR SUCCESS

So many decades of distinguished service dotted by a number of success stories doesn't happen just by wishing.

They undergo training at Harsha Security supervised by our special ex-army team.

Harsha Security understands that a positive-thinking and motivated force does better at work and takes steps to keep guard morale high.

The tiered system of checks and supervision keeps guards on their toes all the time. And they are rotated so that dangers of over-familiarisation are minimised.

The slightest complaint from you and the guard in question is immediately removed from the operation.
